GEORGIA COLLEGE, MILLEDGEVILLE, GEORGIA

April 11, 1975

Blend Of Old And New For Homecoming Alumni Week

Homecoming at Georgia College in April will be combined with Student Achievement Week and capped by Alumni Weekend.

Beginning on Wednesday, April 16, the three events, blended into one, will provide something for everyone --- from the newest freshman or transfer student to the oldest graduate --- during the six days of activities.

One of the highlights of the week will be the student recognition banquet at Central State Hospital's main dining room on April 17 when 43 outstanding leaders on campus will be honored. The banquet will be sponsored by the Drummers Club.

First event in the activity-filled week will be an outdoor informal dance on April 15 sponsored by the Black Student Alliance, Interfraternity Council, and Panhellenic Council in the plaza in front of Lanier Hall.

On April 16, a song festival sponsored by Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha will be held in Russell Auditorium.

On April 17, a field day at the athletic complex on GC's new west campus will be held in the afternoon followed at night by the student recognition banquet.

On April 18, the annual Homecoming Parade will wind through downtown

Milledgeville, a campus barbecue will be held on the front lawn, and a pop concert will be offered in Russell Auditorium.

For alumni only on April 18, the annual Gold and Silver Reunion Banquet will be held at the Milledgeville Country Club.

Alumni Day will be held on April 19. Morning events will include a registration period from 9 a.m. until noon and a continental breakfast in the Bone Alumni House, and a carillon concert and the alumni general assembly in Russell Auditorium.

At noon, the annual awards luncheon will take place in the Maxwell College Union dining room followed by an intercollegiate baseball game with Mercer on the west campus and the President's Tea at the Old Governor's Mansion, both in the afternoon of April 19.

At night, the Georgia College stage band will present a concert and the College Government Association will sponsor a semi-formal dance in the college union.

On April 20, the final event of the week will feature a talk entitled "A Religious Experience With Flannery O'Connor" by Rev. Ed Nelson, director of the Wesley Foundation, in Chappell Hall. Music will be provided by the Black Student Alliance Choir.

Homecoming Court Chosen

Twenty-three girls from three states will vie for the title of Homecoming Queen at Georgia College in April.

The field of 23 will be interviewed during the next few weeks and reduced to eight at a tea to be held at the William Thomas Bone Alumni House on campus on April 9.

The students will vote on the eight finalists at a special election, and the queen will be announced and crowned at the Homecoming Dance on April 19.

The 23 girls in contention for the title will be judged on the basis of their interest in the college, personality, appearance, and overall attitude.

Homecoming will be combined with Alumni Weekend and Student Achievement Week at GC this year. The event, five days of activity capped by a host of weekend events for student and alumni alike, will begin on April 16 and end on April 20.

Four of the 23 queen candidates are from Milledgeville, 17 are from other Georgia communities, and two are from Ohio and New York.

The four from Milledgeville are Nancy Anderson, Susan Lamb, Meredythe Monroe, and Mary Laurence Neligan.

Nancy Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Anderson of 2185 Irwinton Road, is a sophomore majoring in fashion marketing. Her extracurricular activities

GC Student Achievement Week Set

When Thomas Wolfe said you can't go home again, he probably had not heard about the fun and games of class reunions at Alma Mater. Or so students at Georgia College are surmising as they spread the news of their spring bonanza at the central Georgia institution.

The 86-year-old college has realized a 19 percent increase in its student body this past year, the largest increase among the senior institutions within the university system. Georgia College has a current enrollment of 3,500 students.

This year the students asked the GC Alumni Association for an opportunity to work with alumni in planning events for Homecoming. Through the College Government Association, every organization on the campus is busy putting the final touches on its part of the spring event that runs from April 14 to 20.

The week preceding Alumni Day, April 19, has been designated "Student Achievement Week," which includes a song festival and field day, and is highlighted by a banquet honoring student leaders who have contributed most in service to the college and community. Forty-three students are slated for recognition.

Robin Howard, student government secretary, states that "students want an opportunity to get to know the alumni, who are the college's best resource for student recruitment, for consultants in speciality programs, and for financial assistance of such extras as scholarships and loans."

KRESKIN--Both entertainer and scientific experimenter.

Kreskin Appears At Georgia College

A man billed as "The Amazing Kreskin" appeared at Georgia College on Tuesday, April 8.

Kreskin's 8 p.m. appearance in Russell Auditorium at GC was free and open to the public.

Kreskin, an ESP expert and lecturer, was "capable of demonstrating the mysteries of human thought and feeling," according to the artist's booking agent, who also claims that Kreskin is considered "a forerunner of refined communication."

The GC Lecture Series artist has appeared on a number of TV talk shows including the Tonight Show and the Merv Griffin Show.

Bernice McCullar Scholarship Established

A scholarship has been established at Georgia College by the GC Alumni Association in honor of Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar, a graduate of the college known throughout the Southeast as an educator, journalist, historian, and lecturer.

Mrs. McCullar was recently honored in the Georgia State Senate and later in the House of Representatives by resolutions commending her for service to the state as a "scholar, inspired teacher and devoted friend to all who knew her." The resolutions were adopted wholeheartedly by the General Assembly's legislators.

Mrs. McCullar, who now resides in Decatur, received her AB degree from GC when it was known as the Georgia State College for Women. Later, after receiving a masters degree from Mercer University, she served in a number of posts at GC including that of director of public relations and as associate professor of English. Mrs. McCullar also studied at Columbia University.

From 1951 until 1966, she served as director of information for the Georgia Department of Education.

The GC alumna authored and presented an educational television program on Georgia history entitled "This Is Your Georgia" during her tenure with the department. She also wrote a book with the same title, a newspaper series on how to make good grades, and articles for such newspapers and magazines as the Christian Science Monitor, the New York Times, the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, the Farm Journal, McCall's, and Coronet.

Her Georgia history book became a standard in the state. She also wrote a homemaking textbook called "Building Your Home Life" and two long-playing records on how to study and how to become an exciting teacher. Both records are widely-used in Canada and the U.S.

Mrs. McCullar is a charter member of the Atlanta Press Club and has been the recipient of numerous titles and awards including Atlanta's Woman of the Year, Georgia's Woman of the Year in Education, and WSB's Great Georgian.

She has also been awarded the M.D. Collins trophy by the Future Teachers of America, the Quill award by the Atlanta chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the Chi Omega award for outstanding service to education, and the Theta Sigma Phi award as an outstanding member.

While she was active, she lectured throughout the state and nation, appearing before hundreds of teacher, community, church, civic, and service groups.

As a member of the Georgia Bar Association, Mrs. McCullar practiced law for a time in Milledgeville with her husband, the late Judge C.B. McCullar.

The woman for whom the GC scholarship is named was born in Richland in South Georgia, the daughter of a Baptist minister who also owned the town newspaper.

VA News

"An estimated 2.7 million Vietnam-era veterans separated from April 2, 1970, through July 31, 1974, are eligible for new low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI), but they must apply before August 1, 1975," said A.W. Tate, Director of the VA Regional Office for the state of Georgia. The new program is designed as interim protection during readjustment to civilian life, according to Tate.

"Servicemen discharged since Aug. 1 receive application forms automatically, but those discharged before the insurance became available must apply," Mr. Tate said.

"Nonrenewable, five-year term coverage is available in $5,000 increments up to $20,000. Monthly premium for the maximum coverage is $3.40 for veterans aged 34 and under and $6.80 for those 35 and over," Tate continued.

Former servicemen may convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to private life insurance.

McGill Scholarship Fund

Aspiring young Southern Newspapermen and women in need of financial assistance to attend the last two years of college have until May 1 to apply for Ralph McGill Scholarship Fund grants for the 1975-76 academic year.

The Ralph McGill Scholarship Fund was created to honor the late Ralph Emerson McGill, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution.

The Fund's Advsopru Cp,ottee has stipulated that grants will be made in amounts not to exceed $1,500 for a full academic year of college for each recipient. Awards will be based on journalistic interest and aptitude plus need.

Jack W. Tarver, president of The Atlanta Journal and Constitution and chairman of the Fund's Advisory Committee, said the group agreed that the amount of each grant would be based on the individual's own financial requirements.

Grants are available to qualified young men and women whose roots lie in the fourteen Southern states. Tarver said the Advisory Committee also will act as the selection committee. He said applicants must show an "abiding interest" and aptitude for newspaper writing and editing and successful applicants must convince the committee that they are determined to make a career of newspapering.

Other members of the committee are: Herbert Davidson, editor and publisher of The Daytona Beach News-Journal; John Popham, managing editor of The Chattanooga Times; Reg Murphy, editor of The Atlanta Constitution and William H.

Fields, vice president and executive editor of The Atlanta Journal and Constitution. Application blanks may be obtained from the Ralph McGill Scholarship Fund, Box 4669, Atlanta, Georgia 30302.

Vet's Qualify For Housing Assistance

The Veterans Administration reminded married veterans that it is easier than ever before to qualify for housing assistance.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Richard L. Roundbush noted the agency now accords full recognition to incomes and expenses of both veteran and spouse in determining ability to repay loan obligations.

Roundbush said VA is required by law to determine if contemplated terms of repayment bear a proper relation to the veteran's anticipated income and expenses before approving the loan.

"But while the spouse's income has always been considered," Roundbush explained, "local rules sometimes had the effect of discounting the spouse's income. Now, however, no such local rules are imposed, and the spouse's income is given full consideration."

VA guarantees 60 per cent of GI loans (maximum $17,500) private lenders make to military service personnel, veterans and eligible spouses of World War II, Korean and post-Korean Conflicts and the Vietnam-era.

Governor Honors

Veterans across the state of Georgia were given special recognition during "Veterans Emphasis Week", March 29th through April 4th as proclaimed by Governor George Busbee.

In his proclamation, Busbee stated that Georgians are "indeed proud of these Americans, and grateful for their sacrifices in the name of peace and freedom."

The proclamation indicates that many veterans in the state are not aware of the benefits and programs available to them, especially those of the Vietnam era.

The Governor urged that the week be observed "In communities throughout the state in order to increase public awareness of the benefits earned by our American veterans."

This year's proclamation marks the second year that Georgia's Governor has set aside a week to honor veterans of all wars, but particularly Vietnam-era veterans.

The proclamation was prompted by the Georgia Association for Veterans Education (GAVE) and the Georgia Veteran's Association (GVA). The GVA is the University of Georgia's campus veterans organization. The GAVE is a provisional group of veterans affairs coordinators who direct veterans programs in many schools and colleges throughout the state.

GAVE's program, which is federally funded by the Veterans Cost of Instruction Program (VCIP), was designed to aid veterans enrolled in school and to urge veterans throughout the country to utilize their educational benefits.

A U.S. Senate study in 1973 showed that through April of that year only 40.6 percent of the Vietnam era veterans in Georgia were using their educational benefits.

Georgia Veterans

Wade Gassman, president of the GAVE stated that, "Since the VCIP program began, there has been about a 32 percent increase in the number of veterans enrolled in educational programs in VCIP funded schools across the country. Throughout Georgia, enrollment figures have also increased considerably," he said.

Veterans Administration figures showed that in May of 1973, 31,287 veterans were using G.I. Bill benefits for educational programs in Georgia. Through February of 1975, that number has increased to 38,937, an increase of approximately 20 percent.

A.W. Tate, director of the V.A. Regional Office in Atlanta, stated in his February News Letter that, "The 42,710 veterans and dependents in training as of the end of January is also a new high figure. The previous high figure was 38,840 which was hit in April of 1974," he said. The V.A.'s February enrollment figure is approximately 4,000 higher than any previous enrollment.

The recent passage in December of increased educational benefits by about 23 percent has promoted more veterans to seek higher educational levels.

"Veterans Emphasis Week" will hopefully encourage more Georgia veterans to utilize the benefits available to them. Veterans interested in learning more about the benefits available to them should contact the Veterans Affairs Coordinator of Georgia College. His office is located in Parks Hall Basement.

Gains To Attend Art Convention

George Gaines, chairman of the Georgia College art department, will attend the National Art Education Association convention in Miami Beach on April 4-9.

In addition to attending the regular meetings, he will participate in two special programs sponsored by the special events section of the conference.

Gaines is active in the Georgia Art Education Association, an affiliate of the NAEA.

The national association is an organization devoted to the advancement of the professional interests and competence of those teaching art at all educational levels.

Air Force Band Performs At GC

A band, that has performed on NBC's "Today Show" and with Bob Hope at a national Boy Scout jamboree in Idaho, will be in concert at Georgia College on Thursday, April 10, at 8 p.m.

The concert, in Russell Auditorium is free and opened to the public.

The musical aggregation, the U.S. Air Force Reserve Concert Band, consisting of 45 professional musicians, was recently awarded the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for its efforts in promoting the Air Force and the Air Force Reserve.

Commander-conductor of the band is Major Benny Knudsen.

The Air Force Reserve Jazz Ensemble, a component of the larger band, also performed. The ensemble was comprised of 20 talented musicians and led by Master Sergeant Gerald Mullins.

The bands have presented concerts in every major city in the U.S. and traveled more than 100,000 miles last year fulfilling more than 200 engagements throughout the nation.

RA Needed

Applications are now being taken for students interested in working a maximum of 15 hours per week at regular student wages as a Resident Assistant (R.A.). The resident Assistant is an undergraduate or graduate housing staff member who provides leadership and advisement for students in a designated area of a residence hall. It is the responsibility of the R.A. to assist in creating an atmosphere that will be conducive to academic success, as well as the social and personal development of each student.

An R.A. should be sensitive and responsive to the needs of students, challenge students to understand their purpose for being in college, and assist in providing meaningful human relationships among residents in the hall. The R.A. is afforded the opportunity to make an important contribution to the education of others and in turn enhance his own experience.

Candidates should possess the following qualifications:

1. Be a full-time student of the upperclass standing at the time of assuming the position.
2. Have a minimum cumulative grade point of 2.0.
3. Have lived in a residence hall for at least one quarter.
4. Exhibit the personal characteristics of leadership, maturity, scholarship, interest in and aptitude for working with people.
5. Resident Assistants should not be involved in any major extra-curricular activities or part-time work which make it impossible for them to meet their responsibilities in the hall.
6. Preference will be given to applicants who are available for a nine month appointment.

Georgia Day Profits

Paul King, president of the Milledgeville-Baldwin County Bicentennial Committee (right) and W.K. Holt, the committee's treasurer, hold a check made out to the organization while Dr. J. Whitney Bunting, president of Georgia College and a member of the Georgia Day committee, stands at left. The check represents the profit made from the recent Georgia Day banquet held in Central State Hospital's main dining room. Dr. Bunting, along with Mrs. Bunting, were instrumental in initiating the celebration of Georgia Day in Milledgeville a number of years ago.

June Outdoor Institute

The seventh annual Georgia College Outdoor Education Institute will be held on June 8-15 at Lake Laurel, five miles east of Milledgeville.

The week-long program of involvement at the college-owned lake site is designed for practicing leaders in the field of recreation and for graduate students majoring in health, physical education, and recreation.

A staff of consultants from Georgia, Alabama, Michigan, Tennessee, and Ontario will conduct the institute, and local artisans will teach their crafts during the series of sessions and seminars that make up the outdoor workshop.

All will be concentrating on making institute participants aware of the possibilities of using the out-of-doors as a classroom, according to Floyd V. Anderson, chairman of the health, physical education, and recreation department at Georgia College and institute director.

"During the institute, leaders will try to show how the out-of-doors, a natural classroom, can be used to enhance and embrace all disciplines," Anderson notes, adding that the institute is "not just a PE or camping course."

The institute curriculum this year will show several significant changes from the curriculum last year, says Anderson, because the needs of the participants change from year to year and because the institute must keep abreast of current trends in the field of recreation.

The introduction of the metric system to the U.S. and metrication will be a change to be explored this year by the institute, he noted.

GC has gained a national recognition through the institutes. Institute programs have been cited as outstanding at national and international conferences, and a number of state colleges and universities, including St. Cloud State in Minnesota, have patterned institutes after the one first established in 1969 at GC.

At least 21 elementary and high school programs in recreation including one in Milledgeville have been started as a result of training offered at Lake Laurel over the past six years, according to Anderson.

Participants will stay either in a rustic lodge at the lake or in their own campers and tents. Institute costs will vary depending upon whether the participants are residents of Georgia and whether they will need room and board in the lodge.

Five quarter hours of graduate credit are offered for the one-week resident institute.

Currently there are 25 slots left in the 1975 institute class. Complete information about the June outdoor education institute can be obtained by contacting Anderson, in care of the health, physical education, and recreation department at GC.

Quality For Schools

The Ralph McGill Scholarship Fund is offering a scholarship of up to $1,500 to students who have completed at least two years of college, and who have demonstrated an abiding interest in the news and editorial phase of newspapering. Jack Tarver, Chairman of the fund's Advisory Committee, said scholarships are limited primarily to young men and women whose roots lie in the South. Applicants must also convince the Awards Committee that they firmly intend to pursue a career in daily or weekly newspapering.

A letter of not more than 500 words telling why the applicant wants a scholarship, together with a photograph of the applicant, must accompany each application. Applicants also must have a letter of recommendation from a college authority.

SREB Graduate Programs Available

Students from Georgia can now enroll in seven out-of-state graduate programs -- including ones in Astronomy, Criminology and Neurosciences -- at in-state tuition rates through the Academic Common Market, a project of the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB).

The Common Market -- which began operation last Fall -- was formed as a sharing vehicle for Southern states to increase accessibility but to discourage duplication of highly specialized and often expensive graduate programs.

Unlike the lengthy and often intimidating forms needed to apply for financial aid, the qualification process for the Common Market is simple. There are only two requirements: acceptance in a program offered through the Common Market, and proof that one is a resident in a state which has made arrangements to send its residents to that program. In most cases, the latter merely involves providing one's Common Market state coordinator with a photocopy of a driver's license and/or a voter registration card.

Residents of Georgia can obtain further information on the program by writing their state coordinator: Joseph Hammock, Vice Chancellor, University System of Georgia, 244 Washington Street, S.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30334.

Here is a list of the seven graduate programs which the State of Georgia has made arrangements for its residents to have access through the Academic Common Market:

Astronomy at University of Florida; Coastal and Oceanographic Engineering at University of Florida; Criminology at Florida State University; Fisheries and Allied Aquacultures at Auburn University; Neurosciences at University of Alabama in Birmingham; Petroleum Engineering at Mississippi State University; and Radio Astronomy at University of Maryland at College Park.

Tutorial Service A Disappointment

"I'm quite disappointed that students have not fully taken advantage of the tutorial service that exists in mathematics at Georgia College," says Dr. Dick George, chairman of the college mathematics department.

"The students at GC have an excellent opportunity here for help, and they're not using the service as much as they could or should, he adds.

The tutorial service, operated by the college with funds from the Georgia College Foundation, is free and available to any student who needs it.

Since the service was started (in both math and English) in the fall of 1971 in conjunction with what has become the special studies program at GC, nearly 300 students have been given special attention by upper classmen who are paid for their expertise and their willingness to teach those having difficulty in a subject.

Dr. George is heartened by the fact that there was a 40 per cent upsurge in the use of the service this past winter quarter over that of the fall quarter, but in general, he feels that not enough students are benefiting from the service.

The fact that many GC students have unusual working schedules (many are employed at Central State Hospital on varying shifts) and such outside distractions as Lake Sinclair and Lake Laurel accounts to some degree for the up-and-down use of the service.

The number of students who attend the tutorial sessions fluctuates with the nearness of exams, the weather, and a number of other factors, according to the math department chairman, who recruits junior and senior math majors to teach in the tutorial program, schedules sessions, and follows up on the instruction.

New Display In Mansion

A State of Georgia ten-dollar bill now graces a display case in the Old Governor's Mansion on the Georgia College campus.

The bill, a unique addition to the Mansion's collection of Georgia memorabilia, was presented to the college by Dr. James E. Land, a professor of chemistry at Auburn University. Dr. Land recently toured the Mansion and was impressed by the collection of antiques there.

The bill dated April 6, 1864 and bearing the name "Milledgeville" in an upper corner reads as follows: "THE STATE OF GEORGIA will pay the bearer TEN DOLLARS at her Treasury on the 25th day of December next in Confederate Treasury notes issued after the first of April, 1864, if presented within three months after maturity. Otherwise not redeemable except in payment of public dues.

Signed: T.D. Tinsley, for the Comptroller General and R.J. McCann, for the Treasurer.

Dr. and Mrs. Land are friends of Harriette Donahoe, assistant dean of students at GC, who made the actual presentation to Dr. J. Whitney Bunting, GC president.

The Old Governor's Mansion, now the home of the college president and his wife, was once the residence of Georgia's governors -- when Milledgeville was the capital of the Peach State (1839 to 1868).

Song Festival

The Beta Rho Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota and the ETA Alpha Chapter of PHI MU Alpha Sinfonia will present a song contest as part of the festivities of Georgia Homecoming Week. Each group will present two songs, with first place awards given to the best: Fraternity, best Sorority, and best Non-Greek organization.

Tickets will be on sale at the Student Union and the Dining Hall at $5.00 per ticket between the hours of 9:00 and 5:00, April 9-15. Tickets not sold at the Student Union will be sold at the door.

GARY W. YAWN

ROTC Here At GC

College students and recent graduates are facing intense competition for a limited number of job openings. But for students who haven't completed their sophomore year, there are programs available which could prepare them to land jobs after graduation. One such is the Army ROTC Two Year Program which is designed for students who have completed two years of college. It also embraces transfer students and other college and university students who didn't enroll in Army ROTC at the beginning of their college career.

The leadership and management training these students get, coupled with the responsibilities and challenges faced during active duty, gives the Army ROTC graduate a competitive edge in getting civilian jobs.

To qualify, students must be at least 17 years old, but under 28 at the time of graduation. They must be academically, physically and morally acceptable. In addition, they must attend a six-week Basic Camp during the summer prior to entering the program. For this they are paid approximately $500, plus travel. Veterans and those students with 3 years of Junior ROTC are not required to attend this Basic Camp.

After successfully completing the Basic Camp and enrolling in the Army ROTC Advanced Course, cadets earn $100 each month for up to 20 months and attend a six-week Advanced Camp between their junior and senior years. During this camp period, the principles of leadership are put into practice and cadets are paid approximately $475, plus travel.

Army ROTC graduates normally have a two-year active duty commitment with the Army for which, as Second Lieutenants, they earn approximately $10,000 a year.

Students interested in enrolling should contact CPT Ray Lee at Georgia Military College. Phone: 453-3481, Ext. 52.

Federation Protects Eagle

The National Wildlife Federation announced today that it will pay a $500 reward to a Tennessee duck hunting guide for supplying information that led to the conviction of a Memphis physician last month for killing a southern bald eagle.

The reward will go to Frederic Alfred Hamilton, 25, of Route 4, Union City, who saw a hunter shoot down an eagle from a duck blind at Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., on January 4. Hamilton supplied a detailed description of the hunter, his companions, and a pickup truck in which they left the scene of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service of Nashville.

His description, which was "near perfect," according to Special Agent William Parker of the Fish and Wildlife Service's Nashville office, was broadcast throughout the state. Three weeks later, on January 27, Dr. John W. Tosh, 50, admitted to U.S. Attorney Thomas F. Turley, at Memphis, that he had shot the eagle. On February 6 he pleaded guilty before U.S. District Judge Bailey Brown to a charge of killing the eagle, and endangered and protected species, and was fined $1,000.

Judge Bailey, who could have imposed a $5,000 fine and a one-year prison term, said he wanted to "make an example," of the doctor, who told the court that he mistook the eagle for a hawk. "We must protect our endangered species so that our children will have something to look at," the judge told him.

Under federal law it is illegal to kill either a hawk or an eagle. The eagle shot down at Reelfoot Lake, a wintering site for more than 60 of the endangered birds, had a wingspan of about six feet and was approximately three years old.

The $500 reward to Hamilton is the fifth to be paid by the National Wildlife Federation, the country's largest nongovernment conservation organization. The reward was posted in 1971 after disclosure before a Congressional committee that airborne hunters, hired by ranchers, had killed more than 65 golden and bald eagles in Wyoming. The reward is paid, specifically, for "substantial assistance" in obtaining a conviction for shooting a bald eagle (Haliaeetus leucocephalus) in violation of 16 USC 668.

"The main threat to our dwindling eagle population is not hunters, but the destruction of eagle habitat," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, in announcing the reward to Hamilton. "That is why we are working to provide and protect habitat for our national bird. But the shooting of eagles must be stopped, and that is why, as a deterrent, we offer our $500 reward."

The Interior Department's Office of Endangered Species estimates that there are now approximately 2,000 northern bald eagles and fewer than 1,000 southern bald eagles in the "lower 48" states. The bald eagle was adopted as the national symbol by the Continental Congress in 1782.

Letters To The Editor Notice

There will be an election for the Vice President of CGA on Tuesday, April 28, 1975. The petition box and roster will be at the desk in the downstairs of the Maxwell College Union. All petitions must be in by 6:00 on April 23, 1975. To be eligible to run one must have completed at least 91 quarter hours, 60 of which must have been completed at Georgia College, and in addition must have served a minimum of two quarters as a member of the Student Senate prior to the time of taking office.

Dear Editor,

I would like to comment on the unfair and discriminatory position of women students residing in the dormitories on campus. When a woman student is awarded unrestricted curfew she supposedly assumes the responsibility for her actions and whereabouts. This is an illusion. She still must sign in or out if she wishes to take advantage of unrestricted curfew and upon returning to the dorm after hours, finds herself locked out. She then must wait around until security decides to come unlock the doors and, according to the handbook, must even sign in at the Security office before being let in. Therefore, there are quite a few restrictions on "unrestricted" curfew.

Male students on this campus do not have any curfew, don't have to sign in or out, and never find themselves locked out of the dorm. This is both unfair and discriminatory. Locked doors only encourage people to stay out all night and to try and find other ways to "beat the system".

The women students on this campus are just as mature as any male student and just as capable of assuming the responsibility for her actions as anyone else. I implore the editor, the other women students in this inferior position, and anyone else with a sense of fairness and right to please help do something about the discriminatory position of women on the Georgia College Campus. Women should have an equal status as students on this campus.

Very Sincerely,
A Concerned Student

Dear Faculty Member,

Our weekly paper the Colonnade, is presently teetering between success and failure. With your help, I feel success closer to grasp.

Every individual has strong ideologies toward life. It is my opinion that students have considerable interest in what their teachers believe.

Presently the Colonnade has planned a weekly section with the faculty playing the star role. If you do have strong feelings that you would like to share with others, now is your chance to see it in print. Works of prose, art, and photography may also be included in the submission.

I challenge each of you to publish what you for so long have kept to yourself. Any topic will be suitable, and accepted gratefully.

I'll be looking forward to reading your contributions.

Sincerely,
Suellen Griggs
Former Editor of Colonnade

Dear Ms. Griggs,

In response to your letter that appeared in the March 7 issue of the Colonnade, we feel you have no well-founded opinion on the food service at Georgia College, since you do not possess a meal ticket and therefore are not exposed to the deficient quality of the meals. We speak only in terms of meal quality, not of such trivial matters as waiting in line or bussing trays.

In your letter you stated that a meeting was held to find possible solutions to this most distressful situation, we are confronted with daily. You further stated that this meeting was well publicized. This statement is overly exaggerated, because the fact of the matter is, the only knowledge we had of such a meeting was posted on an infinitesimal sign located only in the cafeteria, amongst an assortment of others. This sign, as far as we can ascertain, was posted one day previous to the meeting.

We realize what a difficult task it is to prepare such an enormous amount of food; however, we feel steps should be taken now to improve our overall food service. We feel our food service is not to the best of their ability trying to remedy the situation that exists. We, therefore, request that the food service make even greater efforts to improve the quality of our food.

Sincerely,
Thomas Brannen and
Charles Williams

Dear Sirs (Brannen and Williams)

I am not Ms. Griggs, but I feel that she and I have a similar situation. In your letter you could be right about our not having well-founded opinions on the food service at Georgia College, since we are not exposed to the type of meal Saga prepares everyday. Yet, I do eat there occasionally and for the most part I am satisfied--not over joyed--but just satisfied with the taste that goes along with creating a balanced diet. I really believe that if you were really concerned about nutritional value of the enormous amount of food prepared each day, you would do some research of the individual values of the items prepared in the cafeteria. Then submit this to the head of the food services and at this time, if the balanced diet was not being completed, there would be change made. Thank you for your interest and effort to improve the quality of the cafeteria food.

Dear Editor:

You were absolutely right when you said that there was not much you could say in reply to Mr. Smith's letter. So, why then did you proceed to waste six inches of news space by not saying much?

Your suggestion of going early to lunch when you anticipate a crowd has more than one flaw in it. For one thing, it's difficult to make a professor understand why you must leave class fifteen minutes early to beat the lunch rush. For another, no one ever knows when decent food is to be served unless they happen to catch the jubilant cries of "It's edible, it's edible!" You see, Uncle Charlie likes to surprise us.

And as to your well publicized meeting--the notice was printed (minutely) on a piece of paper roughly 6 x 6 inches and placed by the menu. No one saw it there because no one looks at the menu. There are those of us who are still hopeful. I only saw it because I happened to be there when it was posted. I read it because I still believe in fairy tales; I did not go to the meeting because I have to work after classes to pay the installments of the meal ticket I am forced to buy.

I understand that you will probably disagree with most of what I've said because we are looking at this from radically different viewpoints. After all, I know what I'm talking about.

Brandy Briley

Dear Student Body,

Although some students may be in controversy about Georgia College having a student newspaper, the answer is simple. It does! It has a student newspaper, but it lacks a student staff.

There is enough newsworthy events happening on the Georgia College campus to warrant a weekly, eight page paper. However, it is impossible for five or six people to produce quality newspaper each week. Through student interest this problem could be easily remedied.

Each organization on campus (fraternity, BSA, etc.) should have an appointed representative or representatives responsible for submitting news concerning that organization. From the news the Colonnade receives from the organizations, it would be a reasonable conclusion to say they sit on their hands in a room and stare at each other. Independents as well should have interest in events at GC.

Take interest in the Colonnade and it will assuredly take interest in you.

Sincerely,
Ricky Manville
Editor of the Colonnade

Dear Editor,

It is my understanding that you receive information about job openings for students. Often I see posted around the school pamphlets about student work abroad. Well, I am interested in going to Europe and my philosophy is that one must live while he is young or he won't live at all. With a job that pays a decent salary for students abroad I could make a double success out of my summer. If you have any information about student work abroad, please print something about it in the next issue possible.

Sincerely,
Hopeful to Travel

Dear Hopeful To Travel,

I received the following article for public release called Work in Europe, just a few days before I received your request for information. So, I am going to publish it in your behalf.

Work In Europe

If you are a college student looking for a job you may end up working in Europe. Any student between the ages of 17 and 27 can have a temporary job in Europe. Most openings are in hotels, resorts, offices and restaurants in Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Spain and Switzerland. Positions are available to all college students who submit their applications by mail in time to allow for processing permits and working papers.

Working periods vary from 60 days to one year, but some students have stayed longer. As no previous experience or foreign language is required, the door is open to anyone within the age limits. Wages range from $250 to more than $450 a month, plus free room and board, leaving wages free and clear.

In addition to living new experiences, and seeing Europe while you can, working in Europe offers the chance to travel on a pay-as-you-go basis without really being tied down. At several reunions recently held by students who had worked in Europe, the most heard comment was, "The experience alone was worth it."

Jobs and working papers are provided on a non-profit basis, and brief orientations are given in Europe just prior to going to work. These packed sessions speed adjustment to Europe and make certain all goes well on the job.

Any student interested in a temporary job in Europe may write directly to Student Overseas Services, Box 5176, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93108. Requests for job listings and an application must include name, address and twenty-five cents or the equivalent in stamps.

Dear Student Body:

Once again I would like to welcome ideas to the Colonnade. The staff and I often find it very important to have articles written by students in order to bring the news to you. The Motto of the Colonnade says, "It is your right to know and it is our duty to inform", can only apply if we are informed ourselves. Several members put in twenty or more hours collecting and writing news each week.

Often this work on the staff could be lessened with only a few minutes of your time. Take interest in your paper and it will keep interest in you. If any newsworthy event that concerns you, please drop a note about it in Box No. 3128 or call 452-6225 between 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Dear Mr. Briley,

I congratulate you on your self-confidence and I agree that we are looking at this from radically different viewpoints. Yet, I can't bring myself to grip with the idea of fairy tales being the reason for your reading the notice. I am not a regular customer of the Cafeteria and even I saw the note posted!

My suggestion for you and your health is that you contact whoever is over the food service and plea for a dismissal of your future quarter obligation to eat on campus. But let me warn you that the price of food away from school is quite expensive and usually a lot less nutritional. (As an off campus resident, I have found this to be true). Good Luck.

Sincerely,
Ricky Manville
Editor of the Colonnade

Dear Editor,

Black 27 year old wishes to correspond with older woman who will help me through the final ten months of my sentence. In return, upon my release, I will take care of and help her in all way's a woman desires to be treated and made to feel secure.

Sincerely,
Morris Hines No. 135-903
Box 787
Lucasville, Ohio 45648

Dear Editor,

Did you know that more than half of the letters you receive are from the same person? Well, there is this girl who likes to have her views printed; so what does she do? She writes in to the Colonnade and lets everyone on campus see her views.

Please get her to quit.

Sincerely,
Hope for Change

Dear Hope for Change,

I appreciate the information you have given me, but how am I to do anything about this "one woman staff editorial writer", if I don't know who she is? Besides even if I did, I probably wouldn't ask her to "quit", because if it is just one person writing all the editorials I would be cutting out one whole section of the newspaper. Also I feel that one-sided editorials would be better than no editorials at all.

If you are not pleased with what she writes, then I suggest you counter attack her, through writing opposing views.

Sincerely,
Ricky Manville
Editor of the Colonnade

Greeks Defeat Independents

Wednesday night, the main attraction figured to be the Ugly-Man contest, because the Greek All-Star team was a heavy underdog. However, behind the excellent guard-play of Artie Traylor and the clutch-shooting of Tommy Baswell the Greeks garnered a fine come from behind to a 87-84 victory in the 2nd Annual Drummers Club All-Star Game. The win put the Greeks up 2-0 for the series.

Johnny Cagle led the Greeks in rebounding and scoring, too with 22 points. Baswell added 20 and Traylor chipped in with 12. Billy Blackman led the independents with 34 points.

The Ugly-Man contest was won by Ollie

Kennon with Steve Potts finishing second. In the girls game the independents were victorious 49-16.

Jerry Seymour-Big Orange; Billy Blackman-Jays; Reece Stanley-Dirty 1/2 Dozen; Robert Burns-Knicks; Scott Staples-JQ's; Don McCullough-Hustlers; Kenny Whitley-Wild Bunch; Floyd Comer-Out Shape Gang.

Colonials Defeat Barons, 3-0

Georgia College blanked Brewton Parker 3-0, Monday in their home opener to gain a split in doubleheader and register their first victory. The Colonials are 1-2 with their other defeat coming at the hands of Shorter College.

Frankie Whitehead and Andy Lindsey combined efforts as they shut out the Barons on three hits. Whitehead, 1-0, picked up the victory. Defensively, the Colonials played errorless ball. Kelly Stinson played a fine game behind the plate for GC. Stuart Jones headed up some fine infield plays.

Offensively, the Colonials attacked the ball well, but could not get a run-scoring hit until the bottom of the seventh inning.

With one out, Bubba Owe singled in Nelson Cullum to give the Colonials their first lead. Kelly Stinson followed that shot with a two-run single to put the Colonials on top by 3-0. Andy Lindsey entered the game in the eighth inning to register the save, by putting the Barons down without a hit in two innings of relief pitching.

Bubba Poe led the hitting with 3 for 4, following closely was Kelly Stinson with 2 for 4. Stuart Jones, Dennis Purvis, Gary Couch, and Gerald Hopkins each collected one hit each.

The Colonials face Berry College this Friday and will try to even their conference record at 1-1.

Pi Kappa Alpha Have

Successful Retreat

In the search for more associated brotherhood the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity had a weekend retreat at Lake Laurel April 4-6. The weekend got off to a tremendous success when the brothers held an informal gathering in the Lodge Friday night. The calm and seclusive atmosphere of the lake allowed the Pikes to omit ideas that would sufficiently complete a linear connection of the past, present and future of their organization, and at the same time allow them to get to know better the ideas, hobbies, and skills of the other members of the fraternity.

On Saturday afternoon the Pikes held an interfraternity softball game. This gave those members of the fraternity that are less athletically inclined a chance to appreciate the playing of the game without the stipulations of intramural competition. It also allowed the Pikes that play on the fraternity team a chance for a practice session.

That night the Pikes and their dates returned to Lake Laurel for an all out bash party.

The weekend ended with the relaxation of sipping and soaking up the sun on the dock of the Lake. The whole weekend was an outstanding step toward the fraternity's strive for greatness.

Phi Mu Sponsors

Hope Walk-A-Thon

Pi Mu will once again hold its annual walk-a-thon for the S.S. HOPE. Project HOPE, Health Opportunity for People Everywhere, is the national social service project sponsored by Phi Mu every year. This year, Phi Mu and friends will begin their walk on Saturday, April 26th at 9 a.m. at Russell Auditorium. They will walk the 5 miles out to Lake Laurel for lunch, and then finish the 10 mile walk-a-thon by returning to Russell Auditorium that same afternoon (we hope!).

Everyone is encouraged to walk for HOPE or sponsor someone to walk by pledging a given amount of money per mile. This can be done during the week of April 14-18 between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. A booth will be set up in the bottom of Maxwell Student Union for anyone interested in participating to pick up a pledge form.

Last year, over $250 was raised for the Project HOPE from the walk-a-thon. This year we hope to surpass this figure. We can—with YOUR help!!

Because You Are You

Because you are
I give you the sunrise in a glass bottle.
Because you are
I give you the seasons and my flowers
from baptism.
Because you are
I carry your words in a magicians trunk.
I give them wands and stars to talk to
Because you are
I can hear you by the river
Washing your child in the cool rush of spring water.
The child lies naked in your hands
Blessed with the beauty of goat milk, anmd apple carpenters and gods
and your hands that look like two doves embracing.

Because you are
I bring you roses from Maine
in wicker
in crowns.
Because you are beautiful
I paint you with my eyes
with the colors of the sky
at dusk.
The talk form your lips
I share with all my seas.
You are the metaphor of all my days.

D.R.S.

To Someone

I heard about you today,
Can't say if it was good or bad,
You asked me to keep in touch,
But this is what I have said.

I still remember your last letter,
Every word it said,
I'm glad you are happy,
And yes,—all I see is "red."

I hope your dreams come true.
But a friend needs you now.
Forget about him for now.
And to her—take a bow.

She made you mad, I know.
But she's going through a lot.
I guess it's like scrubbing floors,
With a bucket and a mop.

Have a little understanding, girl.
And help her thru her hell,
Help her see the light,
Help her hear the bell.

I wish I could help her,
To see the light of day.
But when she knows what I am going thru,
How can I show her the way?

Our Feeling Friend

In reply to your poem,
We deliver you this form.
The verses in rhyme,
Made us laugh every time.

We know the stunts you've pulled.
We're not the only ones you've fooled.
We're here to tell the status;
Of your countless mistakes.

Danny Dolphin is only a fake,
You've had all his "feelings" you can take.
Jim Sauer, come out of your den,
Stop that constant living in sin.

Go to bermuda to find your dream,
With your second mother—try not to scream.
With these words, we will go,
Sherry Shakers, Otis and Horny Hugo.

"Strands"

"Strands," welcomes any and all contributions—poems, short stories, essays, or book reviews. Due to the lack of space that often faces us, the Editor often must rearrange lines of poetry to fit an available spot on the page. However, if you do not wish your contributions changed in any way, please attach a note to that effect, and we will do our best to see that your work is printed as you gave it to us. And, please, all contributions should be typed if possible—it saves the Colonnade's typists much unneeded wear and tear. Also, all contributions should either be signed or initialed. Please send your work to "Strands", Box 3128-GC. So, if you feel creative, why not "Express thyself" and share your creation with others—it can be a truly unique experience!

Dillusion

I feel the unfolding of anewness.
Complete transformation from cold earth to-sunlight
Tentatively seeking, never completely ytrusting-
you.
My first buds reach out to be-friends?
Rain seasons the friendship with herbs of-emotion.
The first flower of springtime, and I find myself-caring. Winter descends upon Springtime-
Nothing.

Keep Me Searching (To Sherry)

I see the joys of many who have walked upon the distant mist of time and please.
Not only in the halls of the past, but within the catacombs of the future. Within these I see the joyful faces of those who have found—and the tormented souls of whom, are still searching. And yet, what is it except the find? What can touch a soul?
What is it that can touch the untouchable and not the life, the joy, and the love for something that "is" and yet "isn't"?

I know one who forgot and yet who remember when asked how long to wait, what could I say except, "As long as I-which may lead to the flower?" What can make a soul happy again, time? Hardly, as we can see first you have to forget and to live, instead of remembering and then everyday existing. So many indulge themselves upon. And to whom I speak now, I say "Be what is you, and follow your soul. Even in times distant, your soul will fight your mind, begging you to try at least one last time. Decide if its worth fighting or staying awake for. If its worth the tears, the love, understanding, and dedication you have had to offer—even if you are trampled upon time and again, for trusting. The soul is yours".

If its worth the tears, the love, the understanding, and dedication you have to offer—even if you are trampled upon time and again, for trusting. The soul is yours."

I'm sorry I can't help you more than by just saying words. The wine in this cup is bitter. I know I can only hope the cup is taken from your lips.

The people I find within the entry of time have torturing effects upon everyone-including myself. How long we search, wait, or exist? Who can say? But while you waiting keep your eyes open for that "heart of gold." The one who has the same definition on love as you. The one who will try hard as you. The one who won't lie, cheat, decieve, or change to suit you. The n and only then two souls will unite for "your heart of gold"—which keeps me searching.

you do. Keep Saturday, April 12, and Where Have You Gone Now?

Even though I can't be with you
I find I can't forget

Even though I can't be with you
I find I can't forget
All the love and all the tears
Which in my soul won't quit.

Even though you're a memory now,
Nothing more and nothing less
I find myself wondering
And longing for your carress.

Where, oh where have you gone now
And where is the love we had?
Can it be it's all blown over,
Like the passing of the wind

by another memory

Words

What can one say in words,
When feelings cannot be said?
Why demean them by expressions,
When by the soul, are fed?

By gazing through the eyes,
Secrets will unfold,
Feelings made of satin,
Dreams made of gold.

By using meaningless words,
You spread useless seeds.
Let your feelings grow,
And show them by your deeds.

Don't cheat yourself with words,
When thoughts are only real,
Stop holding yourself back,
And let your feelings feel.

The Clown

A face painted with smiles and laughter;
A heart warm and receptive to all;
A camouflage of wit and joviality.
This is the facade of the Clown.

But deep within him what does he feel?
Within his soul burns the desire to belong,
to be accepted, and to be loved.
An illusion is his way of fitting in—momentarily.

Gaze deep into the eyes of a Clown,
See there the misery and need, and try
To understand that the one who paints life
so rosy
Is but a prism needing the light of love.

You may say that I am a fool and know
not of which I speak,
Yet, I above all know from experience—
Have you not guessed?
I am the Clown.
